

COLUMBIA COMMUNITY GARDEN 2016

Spring Time is almost here! Reconnect with nature and grow some tasty organic veggies, herbs and nice flowers for your kitchen table. Centrally located in town, the garden is set on the Szegda Farm Open Space parcel within a 10,000 square foot fenced garden area. The Columbia Community Garden currently offers an opportunity for people to choose from 4 different garden plot sizes that enjoy full sun throughout the day and is connected to an accessible supply of water for your plants. Fellow gardeners are available to share their experience and support. For a limited time, selecting a small starter garden plot (10x20) for a fee of $15 will include a space that is tilled and ready for your planting. Garden applications and informational brochures are available through June 30 at Town Hall or online on Columbia's website under either the Recreation Department or Szegda Farm web links.
