UPDATE MARCH 2020

TOWN ADMINISTRATOR'S MONTHLY UPDATE

MARCH 2020

In the month of March we are still in the budget process. The schedule this month includes a Board of Selectman (BOS) regular meeting with a budget workshop on 3/3/20 at 7:00 PM. Budget presentations by the Superintendent of the Horace W. Porter School and the Town Administrator to the Financial Planning and Allocation Commission (FiPAC) will be held on 3/18/20 at 7:00 PM. FiPAC will have a budget workshop on 3/25/20 at their scheduled Special Meeting. We have included in this newsletter the additional budget workshop dates, Public Hearing and Annual Town Meeting dates.

The process of filling the lake has begun. This is to allow the lake to fill to capacity during the maximum run-off months of March and April. Each year in March when the surface of the Lake is essentially free of ice, the gate shall be closed and the Lake allowed to return to normal water level. In the event that a substantial ice sheet re-forms and lasts more than 72 hours, the lake level is held to at least 3'6" below normal water level until the new ice is completely out.

● CORONAVIRUS: As the details of the COVID-19 outbreak change and the likelihood of community transmission increases, Easter Highland Health District (EHHD) has real-time information on their website www.ehhd.org with an embedded link to the CDC (COVID-19 Information from the CDC).

If you have specific questions please contact EHHD directly at (860) 429-3325.

Governor Lamont issued an update on CT's Coronavirus prevention efforts on February 26th. Still No Confirmed Cases in Connecticut; State Continues Outreach to Schools, Health Departments, and Residents on Prevention: (HARTFORD, CT) – Governor Ned Lamont today said that the State of Connecticut is continuing to coordinate its prevention efforts and ● organize necessary resources to respond to the potential novel coronavirus pandemic. While there are not any confirmed cases in Connecticut, the governor is urging residents to take all necessary precautions and follow guidelines issued by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention \(CDC\).

SOCIAL ISOLATION AND WHAT WE CAN DO TO HELP: One of our more challenging goals for 2020 is addressing social isolation. The level of social isolation in Columbia may be greater than imagined. Isolation is difficult to find unless a community is intentional about it. We will need to create opportunities to break out of the isolation cycle. There are many factors that can contribute to social isolations, such as, long-term illness, disabilities, transport issues, unemployment and economic struggles, or domestic violence. We are working with the Columbia Senior Center Director, the Commission on Aging, AHM Youth and Family Services, Inc. to help children, teens, and families overcome challenges. At a recent Hunger Action Team regional meeting, we had discussions on common concerns for residents from all our communities experiencing social isolation.

Some tools that we will be engaging include expanding our senior bus hours. The additional hours will increase the scheduled runs to provide more wellness trips throughout the week. AHM formed a strategic planning committee that held 14 focus groups; consisting of community leaders from our local schools, town, state, and faith groups, plus parent surveys. This helped create the three-year strategic plan that will help us improve our human and capital resources.

Mark your calendars for Saturday April 25th as our first Neighbor Helping Neighbors Day. We will be looking for you, your friends, family, church, business, school, or civic organization to help with identified service projects. Ways to sign up: call 860-228-9488 or visit www.signupgenius.com.

COLUMBIA GIRLS CONTRIBUTE TO E. O. SMITH GIRLS BASKETBALL CENTRAL CONNECTICUT CONFERENCE 2020 CHAMPIONSHIP RUN

One of our town's strongest attributes is our commitment to our youth's educational as well as extra curricular development. This is exhibited in our robust boys and girls youth sports program that includes basketball, soccer, softball and baseball development from elementary through middle school ages. Some of these youngsters then go on to compete in their sports at the high school level and beyond.

An example of that success at the high school level is four Columbia young ladies as members of the E.O. Smith High School Varsity Girls Basketball team played a role in the team earning the 2020 Central Connecticut Conference (CCC) Championship. The conference consists of 32 teams throughout central Connecticut. The team concluded the season with a 14-6 record which ranked 14th amongst the 16 teams that qualified for the tournament. In their journey they defeated the #3 seed, Northwest Catholic, the #6 seed, Glastonbury, the #10 seed, Conard and the #4 seed East Catholic in the championship game.

Congratulations to Taylor Golembiewski, Madison Hughes, Elizabeth Levine and Olivia Verboven for attaining this success. Taylor, a junior is E.O.S's floor leader spearheading the team's offense and defense. Maddie, a freshman earned a starting role with her strong post play. Olivia, a sophomore guard comes off the bench and energizes the team with her three point shots and pesky defense. Elizabeth, a sophomore earned a post season Varsity roster spot for her hard work and effort.

Congratulations! We are proud of these young ladies who serve as examples of our commitment to developing our youth and their desire to continue competing in high school. Annually E.O. Smith's girl's team partners with our town's girls basketball players to attend a game as Junior Panthers.

Presidential Primary is a Primary to determine which candidates will appear on the Presidential ballot in November. The Republican and Democratic Primary will be held on April 28th, 2020 at HORACE W. PORTER SCHOOL. Primaries in CT

BECKISH SENIOR CENTER: by Bernadette Derring - The Beckish Senior Center has been a place to display the works of some of our resident artists. Recently Bob Oxenhorn, Kim Kordonowy, and Janice Knight have displayed their paintings. Starting March 15th artist, Katherine Mann, will show her work at the Beckish Senior Center. Kathy has lived in Columbia with her husband for almost 50 years. After growing up in Waterford, CT, she earned a BA in English from the University of Connecticut where she met her husband, Bob. They purchased their home on Cherry Valley Road shortly after they were married, and it is there that she now has her home studio. Kathy was a language art and reading specialist until her retirement, and just began to paint about 15 years ago. Bob supports her by scouting out subjects for her to paint, and he loves to photograph old barns and landscapes for her. Kathy has received significant recognition and awards from the Lyme Art Association (where she is now an Associate Artist), the Mystic Art Association, and the West Hartford Art League. More locally, Kathy's work was "Best in Show" in 2014 in Mansfield, and she was a recent first-place winner in our own annual Rose Marrotte Art Show at the Beckish Center.

It is always interesting to understand how an artist becomes inspired to take up painting. Kathy recalls an early attraction to art, but it was not until she was retired that she found the time to pursue it, which she believes requires serious focus. Talking to Kathy, I was struck by the influence of her elementary school on her life choices. She has a vivid memory of painting in First Grade. Students who finished their work were allowed to paint freely in a cloakroom hallway where easels were set up and outfitted with paint, brushes, and paper. She fondly recalls murals throughout the school which supported learning in other curriculum areas. The power of integrating art into her early education made all the difference for Kathy, and likely planted the seed for her second career as an artist. She had little formal training in art in college, but now she reads avidly about art and artists, and studies the work of old masters and the recent work of many regional artists who show and teach in New England.

I asked Kathy what she found most challenging or difficult about painting. Her answer was surprising. "Everything!", she replied. She elaborated that there are so many places a good painting can go "off the rails", and recounted that Cezanne, the famous French Impressionist, smashed many of his paintings out of frustration. She added that a good painting needs proper attention to many elements: composition, texture, draftsmanship, color, edgework, and "value." Value is simply a measure of how light or how dark something is, but proper value in a painting she believes is the key element to a most successful painting. Studying Japanese woodcuts also really helped her understand the elements of design that are so essential to any piece of art.

Two famous artists Kathy admires are Joaquin Serolla and Frans Mortelmans, artists I knew little about. Serolla was a 19th century Spanish Impressionist whose land and seascapes simply glow, giving him the moniker of the Spanish "Master of Light". Serolla's work, like Kathy's, uses sharp value contrasts which enlivens both of their paintings. Frans Mortlemans was a Belgian who in the early 20th century was most appreciated for his luminous painted flowers in a style that marries impressionism and realism. After viewing Kathy's floral still-lives, it is easy to see that she emulates his style and love of flowers. glow,
